Our vision:

- People with learning disabilities and/or autistic people (and their families and carers) have a good quality of life
- The workforce is well trained, well led and well supported and has the skills necessary to meet the needs of the people they are supporting within community settings and schools.

Our purpose:

To develop a shared understanding of PBS, improve the quality of PBS training, support the implementation of PBS across the education, social care and health in order to achieve our vision.

The development of Positive Behaviour Support in the UK is linked to the continuing journey from institutionalisation to community care for people with learning disabilities.

Revolving doors

- Community wasn't ready
- Staff weren't ready
- Poor health care
- Social relationships and roles were not replaced

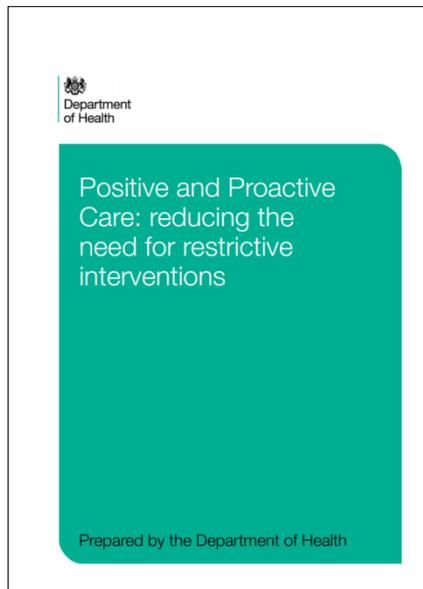

We found different ways to exclude people from their communities – for some people life got worse and they end up back in hospitals.

Winterbourne View, 2012

Six care workers at the Winterbourne View care home were given prison terms for ‘cruel, callous and degrading’ abuse of disabled patients.

Transforming Care programme

- 2,365 people still in hospitals
- Pressure to close beds and relocate the most vulnerable
- PBS at the heart of government policy
- Positive and Proactive, 2014

Everybody wanted PBS

Implementation challenges

- Physical intervention training mandatory in some sectors
 - Workforce recruitment issues
 - Integration of PBS with other disciplines
 - Fidelity/dilution of PBS
 - 'Train and hope' model prevalent
 - Limited number of PBS practitioners and qualification pathways
 - Who is responsible for PBS?

Human rights based definition

“Behaviour can be described as challenging when it is of such an intensity, frequency, or duration as to threaten the quality of life and/or the physical safety of the individual or others and it is likely to lead to responses that are restrictive, aversive or result in exclusion.”

Royal College of Psychiatrists, British Psychological Society, Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists, (2007) Challenging Behaviour – A Unified Approach

POSITIVE BEHAVIOUR SUPPORT

VALUES LED
PBS supports human rights and promotes respect, dignity, inclusion and a life without unnecessary restriction. PBS means treating people equally and working in partnership with the person and their family to make things better for everyone.

PROMOTING QUALITY OF LIFE
The overall aim of PBS is to improve the quality of a person's life and that of the people around them. This includes children, young people and adults, as well as older people. PBS provides the right support at the right time for a person so they can lead a meaningful and interesting life participating in activities and learn new skills.

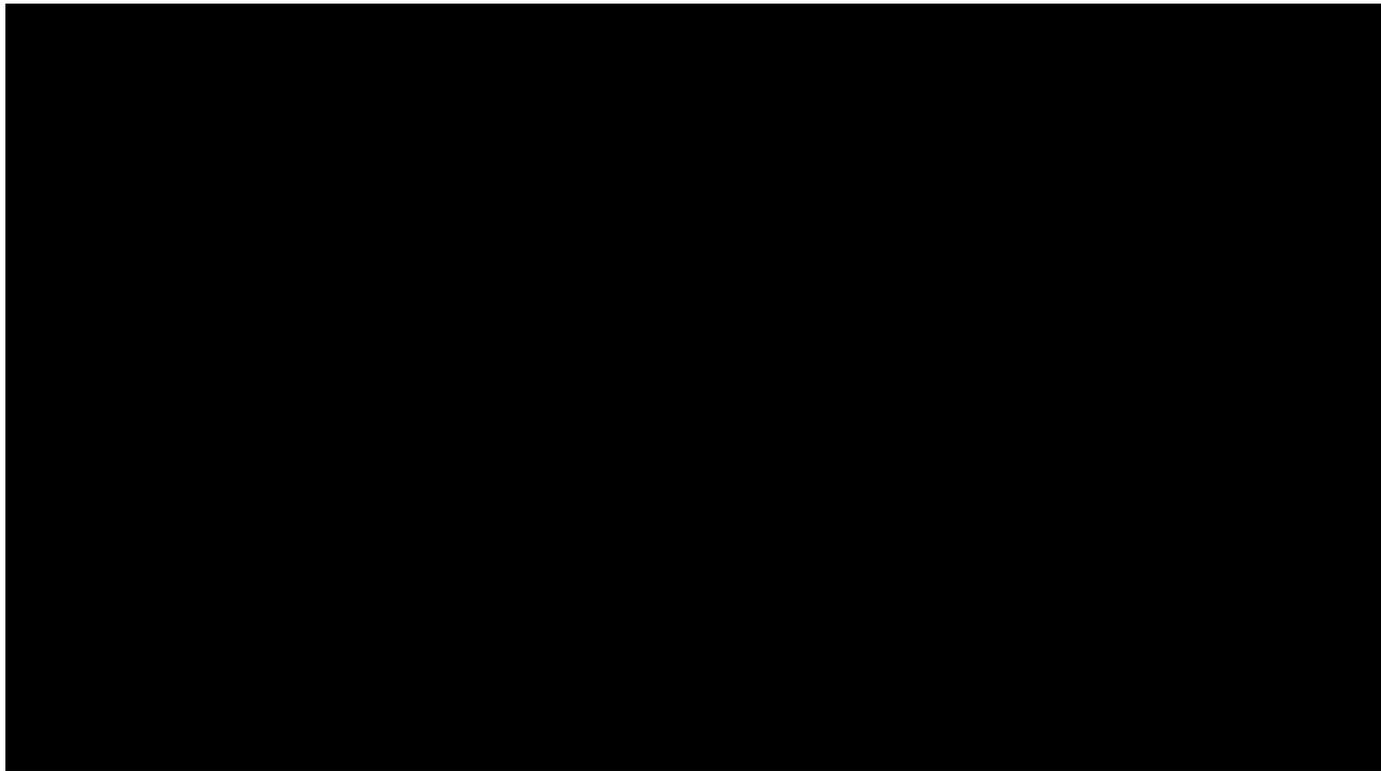

UNDERSTANDING BEHAVIOUR AND MEETING NEEDS
PBS uses different methods to gather information to work out what people's behaviour means. It improves support and empowers people to use better and less harmful ways to get their needs met. This often involved using a range of different approaches that enhance a person's life.

MAKING SYSTEMS WORK FOR THE PERSON
Giving the right support at the right time so people can thrive and fulfil their potential. This may mean changing the way the person is supported. Carers and staff may need training, and service structures and cultures may need to change. Continuous review is important to make sure support carries on working well for the person and those around them.
